SETTING ASIDE THE VERDICT OF A JURY.

Thirty Thousand Dollars a Year Received from the City Railroads.

All the State courts will be closed to-day in ob-ervance of Good Friday.

There was quite a lengthy argument yesterday in the Supreme Court, General Term, on the appeal from the decision of the Judge at Chambers confirming the report of the Commissioners of Estimates and Assessments for the opening of the Eingsbridge road. The same points, substantially, were raised as in the lower court. At the close of the argument the Court took the papers, but meantime permitted a number of lawyers interested against the appeal to submit their points at a later day.

ducing from that the value of their real estate as having been already taxed otherwise, fixed the balance as the amount of their taxable personal property. The companies claimed that the Board should also have deducted their debts, The Commissioners' decision left $1.057,301 subject to taxation, which at the present rate amounts to a tax of a little over $30,000 per annum. The railroad companies appealed by certiforari to the General Term of the Supreme Court, Mr. Scribner arguing the question on behalf of the railroad companies, and D. J. Dean and James C. Carter on behalf of the city. The Supreme Court sustained the action of the Commissioners. An appeal was then taken to the Court of Appeals. The Court of Appeals has affirmed the decision of the supreme Court. DETECTIVES AND COUNTERFEITERS. The examination of George Albert Mason, charged with passing $500 in counterfeit money purporting to have been issued by the Traders' National Bank of Chicago, on Albert W. Ensor, Was resumed vesterday before United States Com-Court room, Chambers street. There was an unusually large attendance, and great interest was manifested in the proceedings. United States District Attorney Purdy appeared for the government and Mr. Waite for the prisoner.

The principal witness examined was Colonel Elmar Washburn, who testified that he was chief of the Secret Service Division: knew the defendant for about five months previous to his arrest; saw him first at Washington, and had an interview with him there on the subject of counterfeiting and counterfeiters. Previous to this interview Mason had addressed a letter to the Secretary of the Treasury enclosing coun-terfeit bills of the denominations of $50, $20 and $5 on the Traders' National Bank of Chicago, and stating that he knew the parties who were counterfeiting and dealing in the counterfeit money and that he was ready to 'give them away," terietters—The Hooster or Live McCarty, Pete McCarty, Ritterhouse, Judd, Ben Boyd—that these parties had an immense amount of counterleit money within their reach, amounting to neariya million of dollars; that it witness supplied him with money he could purchase from them and deliver the whole gang to the government; that he had made arrangements with Ritterhouse to come on to Philacelphia, and that he was then on his way for a conference, but that he believed Rit-

Defendant's counsel claimed the production of the letters.

Mr. Purdy said that at the proper time the letters would be lorthcoming.

Witness communicated with the defendant, saying that if he should come to Washington the expenses of his trip would be paid; defendant soon after turned up in Washington, and in a conversation with witness Mason mentioned the names of several counterfeiters welf known to the witness, and whom he said he could "give away;" these were Judd, Joe Miller and others; made arrangements to meet him the following day in Philadelphia at the Bingham House; the arrangement entered into between them there was that Mason was to turn over the "boodle" of two noted counterfeiters then in Philadelphia—Richards and Hart—amounting to $20,000 in counterfeit bills; this he subsequently managed to effect; the question of compensation arose, Mason requiring that a stated compensation should be fixed, which was peremptorily reinsed; the final arrangement was that he (Mason) should be fairly rewarded in proportion of the value of the results of his services; paid Mason $500 for securing the $20,000 counterfeit "boodle" of Hart and Richards, the latter having been arrested and convicted; it was not through the sole act of the defendant, however, that these parties were brought to justice, though Mason did get $500 for the "boodle" itself: Mason urged his claim for a stated current compensation, which was again reliased the only conditions the Secret Service Bureau would consent to being that he should be paid for his services; if he did nothing he would get nothing; Mason also wanted a badge and a commission, which were relused; Mason then wont to Canada, and soon after witness again heard from him, Mason writing to say that he could get a "boodle," but would not turn it over to Perkins, a detective officer of the government, then may be a subject of some way, by a salary of a base, or some fixed compensation, ASSESSMENT. Henry James Anderson having been assessed for the building of a sewer through a portion of Third avenue and Thirty-lourth street to the East River, applied to have the same set aside. A decision was given yesterday denying the application. The was given yesterday denying the application. The claim of Mr. Anderson was based on the theory that the contractor had allowed to remain in the bed of the sewer a piece of an old wall, that this obstruction caused the water in the sewer to flow back and that his property was injured in consequence. Judge Van Vorst held that while the construction did exist its removal was not within the terms of the contract. The application, therefore, was denied to vacate the assessment on the ground of non-fulfilment of the contract.

tive of extensive litigation in the courts. A suit was commenced yesterday in the Superior Court by Mr. William F. McNamara. on behalf of Patrick Lavelle. The suit is brought against the city, Mr. James Shaw, the owner of the building.

THE CITY RAILROADS TAX.

During the year 1872 several attempts were made by ex-Alderman Gels to compel the various railroads in this city to pay license fees and personal taxes, but at that time without success. The public mind however became aroused to the injustice of allowing the railroad companies to escape without paying personal taxes on their large amount of property, and in 1874 the Com-missioners of Taxes and Assessments in assessing the taxable personal estate of the various city railroads, adopted a rule which was complained of by those companies. The Commissioners took the market value of each company's stock and de-ducting from that the value of their real estate as having been already taxed otherwise.

A VERDICT SET ASIDE.

The jury in the case of the Messrs. Odell vs. the Mayor and others, which has been on trial for several days, handed in a sealed verdict yesterday. This suit was brought by the Odelis to recover $2,500 damages to a team of horses and a carriage, it being claimed that the horses, becoming frightened, ran against a pile of flagstones placed by Williams, the contractor, in front of the residence of a Mr. Donnelly, in Fifty-second street, and that the city, Donnelly and Williams were habe in allowing the nuisance to exist. The verdict was in javor of Williams and Donnelly and

DENIAL OF AN APPLICATION TO VACATE AN

Before Judge Van Vorst.

Some three months ago Sheriff Conner, under an execution, seized a livery stable in Twentyeighth street, together with the horses and carriages, harness and other appurtenances. Mr. Henry Whitman, who lives in Rhode Island, ciaimed that he had a mortgage and claims for loans, amounting altogether to $33,000, and he brought suit against the Sheriff to recover this sum, the case coming to trial yesterday. The desum, the case coming to trial yesterday. The defence was that the amount claimed was not due under the mortgage, and that the loans that were made were at usurious rates and void. The reply was that the contract was made in Rhode Island, that the loans were effected in that State, that except in cases of special agreement to the contract only six per cent was charged for that loan, and that the laws of that State authorize contracts for higher rates of interest. A motion was made to dismiss the complaint, on the ground that the laws of Rhode Island did not govern the usurious character of the loans, which motion was denied, the questions of fact being submitted to the jury. They found that the property seized by the Sheriff was worth only $2,230, and gave a verdict for the was worth only $2,230, and gave a verdict for the was worth only $2,230, and gave a vertice for the plaintif for this sum. The legal question involved being, however, an important one, Judge Monell directed that the exceptions be heard at the General Term, and that the judgment be stayed pending a decision on the appeal.

come on to Philaceiphia, and that he was then on his way for a conference, but that he believed Ritterhouse would not oring the "boodle" with him, or travel with any of the queer about him; Mason suggested to witness to withdraw the $20,000 of counterieft money taken from Richards and Hart, to intrust it to him and that he would sell it to Ritterhouse, and after the latter came into the possession of it that he would inform witness of the fact and then Ritterhouse could be arrested; witness declined to act so, paid Mason $1,050 for his services; the latter then returned West, going to St. Louis, where he met with the McCarthys, Ritthouse and other counterletters; these worklies. This Court was occupied yesterday in the trial of suits brought against the city, most of which were dismissed. None of them, however, involved any points of special interest. Among those dismissed was one by John Dooly, who sued to remissed was one by John Dooly, who sued to recover seven months' pay as time-keeper on the Boulevard improvement. The fact was developed on the trial that the only demand made by the plaintiff upon the Comptroller for his pay was the filing of the pay-roll on which his name was borne in the Finance bepartment. Judge Robinson held this to be insufficient, the law requiring the demand to be made personally by the cistmant or his lawfully constituted agent. Daniel Leamey, formerly an officer of the Court of Common Pleas, sued to recover a month's pay. The complaint is his case was also dismissed. St. Louis, where he met with the McCarthys, Ritterhouse and other counterfeiters; these worthles, however, leil out, and in a saloon emeute Mason was very roughly handled; he kept "snaug," however, and his connection with the detectives was not suspected by the other counterleiters; several arrests were subsequently made by withness and his officers of the counterleiters spotted by Mason, but not through his special means, and wilness aw or heard no more of the prisoner till the arrest of the Englishman Ensor, which ultimately led to the arrest of Mason and his present examination for uttering counteriest money.

led to the arrest of Mason and his present examination for uttering counterfeit money.

In cross-examination Colonel Washburne gave the particulars of the arrest of Mason at the Park Hotel, as already reported in the "HERALD; the finding of the $320 counterfeit money in the room of the bouse in Hudson street, occupied for a couple of weeks by Mason, and further stated a little of the side history of Mason, that he had arranged with some other desperate characters, known to him, to break into the redemption room in the Treasury Department at Washington for the purpose of robbery, but that the plot had fallen through.

The case was then adjourned. In the matter of the will of the late James B. Taylor a reopening of argument was had vesterday on a motion by Mrs. Kate Howland to set aside an order of the Surrogate directing the ex aside an order of the Surrogate directing the executors to pay out of the estate certain judgments of creditors in the city of Utica (some $00,000), and some judgments of New York city creditors to the amount of $10,000. United States senator Kernan, of Utica, appeared for the Utica creditors, claiming that there was some $300,000 of personal assets, which, after all costs and disbursements, would leave a sufficient surplus to pay these creditors. Mrs. Howland claims that there is not a sufficient sum of the assets available to meet the claims of these creditors. After very lengthy argument by counsel the matter was adjourned. have custody of the latter's child gives promise down for further hearing yesterday in Supreme Court, Chambers, before Judge Donohue. Colonel rempieton and various members of his family were present promptly at the hour, having brought the child with them from Nyack. Mrs. Templeton, the mother, put in an equally prompt appearance, accompanied by a coterie of friends, Judge Donohue stated that he had decided to have the facts of the case as to which was the more proper enstodian of the child, the grandfather or the mother, inlly investigated be ore a referee, and named as such relevee Colonel Hardie. Mr. Weed asked that the case be adjourned over, owing to the engagement in another court of Mr. John D. Townsend, counsel for Colonel Templeton. Ex-Judge Busteed, on behalf of Mrs. Templeton, protested against any adjournment, and instisted that the taking of testimony be entered upon at once. After quite an argument on this point Judge Donohue directed an adjournment until next Monday, with an intimation that he should insist on the case then being proceeded with faily until concluded. Meantime Mrs. Templeton was allowed permission to see her child in the aute-room of the court until the departure of the next train for Nyack.

Pending these proceedings there has been developed a new phase in the case. Mrs. Templeton claims to have discovered within a few days that Duncan D. Templeton, the father of the child, had a wife living at the time of their marriage, and upon such discovery has instituted proceedings to have her marriage with Templeton set aside. According to ner amount site was married to rempleton on December 23, 1878, in Stamford, Conn., by the Rev. A. S. Iwanby, and the previous marriage took piace in Brooklya, in October, 1888, the ceremony being performed by the key. Dr. Haskins. It is further alleged that Templeton's first wite is such inving and has a child nearly seven years of age. verdict was in layor of Williams and Donnelly and a disagreement as to the city. Judge Freedman, of the Superior Court, before whom the case was tried, said that he could not receive such a verdict, and directed the same to be set aside on the ground that he could not not sanction a verdict which left the case in such a position that the public treasury could hereafter be robbed under the form of law. On Wednesday night Captain McDonnell, of the Righth precinct, with a squad of his men, made an extensive raid through his bailiwick, and "pulled" three disorderly houses—one in Bleecker street, kept by Mrs. Thompson, and two in Wooster street, kept by Annie Valentine and wooster street, kept by Annie Valentine and Annie Wilson. The consequence was about thirty unfortunates were arraigned before his Honor yesterday morning and charged with disorderly conduct. With the exception of four, who were fined $10 each, they were all discharged with a reprimand and a promise of future good behavior. The proprietors of these places were held in $600 ball each to keep the peace on condition that they vacate their present abodes within fourteen days, the Judge evidently thinking this the most effectual way of ridding the neighborhood of the nuisance.

Another outrage has to be recorded against persons employed by the marshals attached to the Seventh District Civil Court, on the first floor of the Yorkville Police Court building. On Wednesday siternoon a poor man named Thomas Lynch, residing at No. 416 East Seventy-sixth street, apresiding at No. 416 East Seventy-sixth street, appeared before Judge Murray and complained, on oath, that one Charles A. Salzman, William J. Wolfenstein and two other men, whose names are yet unknown, had broken into his rooms, at 1,460 First avenue, on the 231 of the present fhonth, and, after threatening his wife's life and ejecting her and her children from the premises with force and violence, they threw his furniture into the street. He swore further that his rent was paid up to the list of April next to Henry Feltman, the landlord, who had wished to dispossess him notwithstanding, because of some trouble that had arisen between them. Saizman and his friends, he said, admitted to him that they had committed the outrage named, but that they had only acted in accordance with a process issued by Judge Flannigan, presiding at the aforementioned civil court. A warrant for the bartles was issued.

* "In comedies, the duties of the various situations or life are held our to view, and, as I were reflected in a mirror! The effect of parents and the proper configure of children are laithfully delimened, and the vices of profligate character exhibited in their true colors. No Christian need be deterred from attaching them!" — Martin Luther. SPECIAL.

Box Orrice, Thursday, 2 P. M.

The announcement of the three extra performances next week having produced within the last lew hours many applications for reserved seats, the management perceives the capacity of the theatre will probably not suffice to accommodate the public.
